Live sheep phase out commitment

Independent person to lead the consultation process

Minister meeting - 6 December 2022

Andrew McDonald, A/g First Assistant Secretary

Trade Reform Division

INDEPENDENT PERSON

The Independent Person will:

- Undertake an arms length, high-quality assessment to inform the government’s implementation plan to phase out live sheep exports.
- Consult widely with stakeholders to (amongst other issues):
 - Listen to stakeholder concerns about the phase out and understand their respective positions
 - Understand how ending live sheep exports will impact individuals across the supply chain, and what might be required to adjust
 - Provide how and when options for the phase out’s implementation
 - Consider domestic opportunities, e.g., expanding sheep meat exports
- Work with the department to consider and commission analysis and advice.
- Be the face of the phase out and ensure the minister can stay at arms length during the consultation process.

The Independent Person will need to:

- Engage across a polarised group of stakeholders, and understand and manage competing interests.
- Understand (or have ability to) the supply chain, broader ag sector and trade and diplomatic environment.
- Consider viable options to phase out the trade and support impacted parties. Must be conscious of budgetary environment.
- Establish sufficient profile / level of respect
- Be able to travel and commit sufficient time in order to complete the assessment.
- Be compensated appropriately. The method of appointment (e.g. contract, non-ongoing employee, consultancy etc) and salary will need to be agreed with the preferred candidate.

ENGAGEMENT PLAN

Suggested face to face meetings

The Independent Person's consultation process will include significant face-to-face engagement with stakeholders, owing to the sensitive nature of the phase out commitment. This will include opportunities to speak with sheep producers and supply chain participants in a series of regional forums in Western Australia.

Meetings are also proposed with cattle exporters and industry participants in Broome, Darwin and Townsville to ensure the second part of the election commitment – to continue support for live cattle exports – is addressed.

We anticipate additional stakeholders will be identified once the consultation process commences.

INDEPENDENT ASSESSMENT - REPORT TO GOVERNMENT BY 30 SEPTEMBER 2023

The report will provide the underpinning policy analysis that will assist government consider how and when to phase out of live sheep exports by sea. It will deliver a proposed implementation plan and will be used to inform a RIS-like process to support actions.

The report will:

- Analyse the issue and provide recommendations to inform the government's implementation plan:
 1. HOW to phase out live sheep exports by sea
 2. WHEN the phase out should take place
 3. WHAT support could be provided to impacted parties
 4. WHAT opportunities might exist – e.g. increased sheep meat exports, domestic processing, on-shore value adding

The report will not consider the merits or otherwise of the policy.

The report will consider:

- Findings from stakeholder engagement and consultation
- Analysis, including economic impact
- Legal advice – domestic and international, including WTO implications
- Future forecasting and trade and market analysis
- Diplomatic intelligence and sensitivity analysis
- Scientific research
- International + domestic examples (e.g. NZ, ceasing tobacco production, etc)
- Interaction of the sheep phase out with live cattle exports.

The report will consider or build on existing work:

- Industry analysis, e.g.:
 - Mercado's Economic analysis of the live sheep export trade (LiveCorp)
 - ACIL Allen's Economic contribution and benefits of the northern live export cattle industry (LiveCorp)
- Community sentiment surveys – LiveCorp, RSPCA, etc
- Analysis and other work conducted by state and territory governments
- Moss Review
- McCarthy Review
- Northern Hemisphere Summer RIS + Review

Analysis may include (but not limited to):

- The structure, operation, current and historical state of livestock exports (sheep, cattle, goats, buffalo)
- How live sheep exports fits into domestic production systems, including impact on processing availability, employment (incl First Nations people), farm decision making, on-farm resilience and diversification, business management and income, etc.
- Historical trends, drivers and factors that impact sheep production and prices, particularly in WA (incl climate change, intl sheep + sheep meat prices, etc)
- How and what farmers and other supply chain participants need to adjust.
- Trade, market and supply chain analysis, including potential to increase sheep meat exports.
- Live cattle exports, and the potential impact of the live sheep phase out policy.

Consultation will be conducted via:

- DAFF's 'Have Your Say' platform
 - In-person meetings
 - Community drop-ins
 - Virtual meetings
 - Written submissions and surveys
 - Targeted engagement – e.g. with trading partners
 - Formal meetings (e.g. IDCs, industry meetings)
- A communications strategy has been developed to support this, including media releases, talking points, social media, op eds, etc

Implementation options to explore could include:

- Legislative amendments to provide a fixed date for the phase out s. 47C(1)
- A prohibition of new export licences, and a 'buy back' scheme for existing licences.
- The imposition of export quotas to be reduced over time
- Amendments to the Australian Standards for the Export of Livestock
- A extension to the Northern Hemisphere Summer prohibition
- Assistance grants for domestic meat processors
- Exit grants
- Domestic transport grants to encourage domestic processing
