Extension of time under s 54D

Dear Concerned Citizen

On 29 November 2021, the Department of Home Affairs (Department) advised this office that it had not made a decision on your internal review request of 26 October 2021 within the statutory period provided by the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (Cth) (the FOI Act). Consequently, the FOI Act deems that the Department has refused your internal review request and affirmed its original decision.

However, s 54D of the FOI Act allows the Information Commissioner to extend the processing time for an internal review where the initial decision period has ended and the agency or Minister has not provided the applicant with notice of a decision. Department has applied for further time to make a decision on your internal review request.

Contact with you

On 2 December 2021, the OAIC wrote to you to seek your view of the Department's application. You responded to those inquiries and provided comments that I have taken into consideration.

Decision

As a delegate of the Information Commissioner, I am authorised to make decisions on applications for extensions of time under s 54D of the FOI Act.

Whilst the Department has requested an extension until 25 December 2021, I have decided to grant the Department further time under s 54D of the FOI Act to 20 December 2021 to process your request for an internal review. My reasons follow:

- the Department advised that:
 - this non personal request required requesting a search of internal email systems

- while the Department waited for those results to be returned, the Department analysed data from the previous request
 - on receiving the results, 41 items were identified, and 71 folios were found to match the scope of the request
 - on assessing these files, consultation is now required before release, and
- when consulted by the OAIC, you agreed to an extension of time until 20 December 2021.

This extension of time under s 54D of the FOI Act means that the deemed affirmation of the original decision is taken never to have applied if the Department makes a decision on your request by 20 December 2021. Such an extension can only be granted once and cannot be extended by a variation.

If you do not receive a decision by 20 December 2021 or you disagree with the Department's decision, you may wish to seek Information Commissioner review here. Further information on applying for IC review is available on the OAIC website.

Review rights

If you disagree with the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner's (OAIC) decision you can apply to the Federal Court of Australia or the Federal Circuit Court for a review of a decision of the Information Commissioner if you think that a decision by the Information Commissioner to grant an extension of time is not legally correct. You can make this application under the Administrative Decisions (Judicial Review) Act 1977.

The Court will not review the merits of your case but it may refer the matter back to the Information Commissioner for further consideration if it finds the decision was wrong in law or the Information Commissioner's powers were not exercised properly.

An application for review must be made to the Court within 28 days of the OAIC sending the decision to you. You may wish to seek legal advice as the process can involve fees and costs. Please contact the Federal Court registry in your state or territory for more information, or visit the Federal Court website at <http://www.fedcourt.gov.au/>.

Further information

Further information about how applications to extend the timeframe to process an FOI request are handled by the OAIC can be found published on our website:

For FOI applicants: How to make an FOI request: Extensions of time

For agencies and ministers: Guidance and advice: Extension of time for processing requests

The OAIC has the power to investigate complaints about an agency's actions under the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (FOI Act). This is a separate process from asking for an Information Commissioner review following a decision made under the FOI Act. Complaints usually focus on how an agency has handled your FOI request or complied with other obligations under the FOI Act, rather than the decision itself.

In some cases, the Information Commissioner's investigation of a complaint may lead to the agency addressing the issues that you have complained about. In other cases, the Information Commissioner may make suggestions or recommendations that the agency should implement. The Information Commissioner can only make non-binding recommendations as a result of a complaint. You and the agency will be notified of the outcome of the investigation.

FOI complaints to the OAIC must be made in writing. Our preference is for you to use the online FOI complaint form if at all possible.

Further information about how to make a complaint can be found published on our website:
