Your Freedom of Information request FOIREQ22/00357

Dear Verity Pane

I refer to your request for access to documents made under the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (Cth) (the FOI Act) and received by the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC) on 30 October 2022.

Scope of your request

In your request you seek access on the following terms:

This FOI is for copy of all internal emails sent to any Commissioner (including acting) that include "snapshot" (in any case - upper, lower, title) in the body of the email.

Personal details of third party private individuals and private businesses are out of scope.

Only the 100 most recent emails are in scope.

For any practical refusal notice I give advance notice that I do not withdraw or vary my foi.

On 3 November 2022 we emailed you to seek clarification regarding the scope of your request as follows:

I note that your request refers to 'any Commissioner (including acting)'. In your previous FOI request seeking similar information (FOIREQ22/00253) we requested clarification from you regarding the scope of your request, and as we did not receive a response we had interpreted your request to be only referring to Information Commissioner Angelene Falk and FOI Commissioner Leo Hardiman in that FOI request.

We have interpreted the scope in a similar manner here and would be grateful if you can please confirm by Friday 4 November 2022. If we do not hear from you by this time we will proceed with processing your request on the basis that the scope of your request only includes Information and Privacy Commissioner Angelene Falk and Freedom of Information Commissioner Leo Hardiman.

As we did not receive a response to that email, we confirm that we have interpreted your request as only including Information and Privacy Commissioner Angelene Falk and Freedom of Information Commissioner Leo Hardiman.

Timeframes for dealing with your request

The original due date of your request is 29 November 2022. With this letter being a notice under section 24AB of the FOI Act, the time to process your request will be stopped until we have completed this consultation with you regarding the scope of your request, as per section 24AB(8) of the FOI Act.

Notice of intention to refuse your request

I am an officer authorised under s 23(1) of the FOI Act to make decisions in relation to freedom of information requests.

I am writing to tell you that based on the information before me at this time, I am of the view that the work involved in processing your request in its current form will substantially and unreasonably divert the resources of the OAIC from its other operations due to the substantial number of documents which may fall within the scope of the request (ss 24AA(1)(i) and 24AA(2)(b)(i)). This is called a 'practical refusal reason' under s 24AA of the FOI Act.

On this basis, I intend to refuse access to the documents you have requested. However, before I make a final decision to do this, you have an opportunity to revise your request. This is called a 'request consultation process' as set out under s 24AB of the FOI Act. You have 14 days to respond to this notice in one of the ways set out at the end of this letter.

Why I intend to refuse your request

Search and retrieval

Your request was referred to the relevant Commissioners' executive assistants to conduct searches based on your request. Searching and retrieving the relevant documents has taken 2 hours. It has taken a further 13 hours to compile the internal document bundle and document schedule for the documents within the scope of this request.

Examination and assessment time

Based on our collation and preliminary review of the documents within the scope of your request, I have considered the time it would take the FOI decision maker to examine, assess and edit the documents in scope in order to process and make a decision on your FOI request.

We advise the following:

- We have reviewed the first 10 emails (including their attachments) by chronological order within the scope of your request to assess their complexity and any sensitivities or exemptions that may apply to the particular documents ('the sample').
- These 10 emails and their attachments, excluding one attachment that appears to be publicly available so was not included in this sample, totalled 35 pages.
- This assessment took approximately 1.5 minutes per page.

Accordingly, noting that there are 1835 pages within the scope of your request we estimate that it would take at least 46.6 hours for the FOI case officer to assess the pages within the scope of the request and identify exempt, irrelevant, and otherwise sensitive material.

Third party consultation

Having reviewed the sample for the purposes of this s 24AB letter, I have identified 12 third parties that would need to be consulted under section 15(8) of the FOI Act. I estimate that it will take on average 2 hours per third party to identify relevant material, prepare third party consultation correspondence and review and consider any submissions made by the relevant third party. I note that you have excluded the "personal details of third party private individuals and private businesses," from the scope of your request. We have interpreted this to exclude both the personal information of private individuals and also the business information of private businesses. This does not exclude the following information which would require consultation:

- Material related to authorities of foreign governments and international organisations.

I therefore estimate that it will take at least 24 hours to complete third party consultation for these parties. We note the material relates to international organisations, which we consider would be prudent to undertake consultation with these organisations if we are proposing to release this material to you, particular via a public forum on Right to Know. Noting that this is a sample of 10 documents plus attachments, multiplying this sample by 10, in order to process the request, based on the sampling results, I estimate that it would take a minimum of 240 hours to complete third party consultation for the entire document bundle.

Decision making time

I conservatively estimate that it will take the FOI decision maker 2 hours to draft the FOI decision and reasons for decision. Given the work of converting to PDF and entering each of the documents on a schedule of documents has already been completed during search and retrieval, I have not included this task in the estimate.

Combining these estimates for conducting search and retrieval, examination and assessment, third party consultation, and the estimated time to draft the FOI decision, I estimate that it would take a staff member of the OAIC at least 303.6 hours to process your FOI request.

Diversion of resources

An estimate of processing time is only one of the considerations to be taken into account when deciding whether a practical refusal reason exists. As well as requiring a request to substantially divert an agency's resources, s 24AA also requires the request to unreasonably divert an agency's resources from its other functions before it can be refused under s 24.

The Guidelines issued by the Australian Information Commissioner under s 93A of the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (Cth) (the Guidelines) identify matters that may be relevant when deciding whether processing the request will unreasonably divert an agency's resources from its other functions. These include:

- the staffing resources available to the agency for FOI processing;
- the impact that processing a request may have on other work in the agency, including FOI processing whether an applicant has cooperated in framing a request to reduce the processing workload;
- whether there is a significant public interest in the documents requested; and
- other steps taken by an agency or minister to publish information of the kind requested by an applicant.

The OAIC is a small agency, employing approximately 130 staff. Processing a request of this size would substantially impact on the OAIC's operations because of the limited number of people the OAIC has available to process FOI requests. This makes it likely that staff will be diverted from their other work in the OAIC, including:

- undertaking regulatory functions in both FOI and privacy;
- conducting IC review;
- delivering internal legal advice; and
- improving agencies' processes for managing FOI requests.

Request consultation process

You now have an opportunity to revise your request to enable it to proceed.

Revising your request can mean narrowing the scope of the request to make it more manageable or explaining in more detail the documents you wish to access. For example, by providing more specific information about exactly what documents you are interested in we will be able to pinpoint the documents more quickly and avoid using excessive resources to process documents you are not interested in.

Before the end of the consultation period, you must do one of the following, in writing:

- withdraw your request;
- make a revised request; or
- tell us that you do not wish to revise your request.

The consultation period runs for 14 days and starts on the day after you receive this notice. Therefore, you must respond to this notice by 6 December 2022.

During this period, you can ask the contact person (see below) for help to revise your request. If you revise your request in a way that adequately addresses the practical refusal grounds outlined above, we will recommence processing it.

I note that in your request you stated the following:

“For any practical refusal notice I give advance notice that I do not withdraw or vary my foi”

However, as per section 24(1)(a) of the FOI Act, where an agency is satisfied that a practical refusal reason exists, it must undertake a request consultation process before making a decision to refuse the request.

If you do not do one of the three things listed above during the consultation period or you do not consult the contact person during this period, your request will be taken to have been withdrawn.

Ways you can reduce the scope of your request

There are a number of ways that you can reduce the scope of your request to enable us to process it without unreasonably diverting our resources from our other operations. These include:

- Limiting your request to the 10 most recent internal emails received by Information Commissioner Falk or Commissioner Hardiman; and/or
- Removing attachments and all international government and international organisation information from the scope of your FOI request.
